

HUMANITAS Clinical Institute one of the largest Italian Teaching Hospital, connected to the University Of Milan, School Of Medicine, is looking for

2 young talented specialists and 1 senior specialist in gynaecology and obstetrics.

to increase its Reproductive Medicine Unit which has the largest program in infertility and assisted reproduction techniques (ART) in Italy.

HUMANITAS is a Joint Commission International (JCI) certified structure with over than 600 beds and one of the upper-level clinical and research facility in Italy.

Every year more than 2000 new infertile couples are assisted with more than 1000 surgeries and a total of 2500 ART cycles performed in 2009. The Reproductive Medicine Unit has applied for qualification to ESHRE and EBCOG as a certified sub-specialist training program in Reproductive Medicine.

Our young candidates of choice have minimum 6 months of experience while our senior candidate has at least 2 years of experience.

They are Italian speaking and fluent in English.

For non Italian native candidates we will accept a basic knowledge of the Italian language.

All candidates must have achieved the specialization in gynaecology and obstetrics within one EEC country.

Humanitas is located in a great suburban location – few kilometres south of Milan city.

Many outdoor activities are easily accessible as well as pleasant accommodation and housing solutions even for families with children.

The recruiting process is supported by a specialized head hunter.

For extended information about HUMANITAS please address to www.humanitas.it